

THE LAST LIGHT

Wondrous Item, Artifact (Requires Attunement)

Forged from the dying embers of the Sunforge, the Last Light appears as little more than a piece of smooth crystal, save for the flickering spark of pure sunlight that radiates from within.

The Last Light is an artifact with 9 charges. It loses 1 charge every day at dusk. As an action, an attuned creature can expend a spell slot to restore charges to the Last Light equal to the level of the spell slot. If the Last Light ever reaches 0 charges, it loses its light and crumbles to dust.

It requires attunement by a good-aligned spellcaster. To use any of its features, the Last Light must be held in one hand.

Last Light of the Sun. The Last Light continually sheds bright light in a 10 ft. radius and dim light for an additional 10 ft. This light is sunlight. Creatures within the radius of bright light that aren't aberrations, fiends, or undead are immune to the charmed and frightened conditions and have advantage on Wisdom saving throws.

As an action, the wielder of the Last Light can intensify the light for 10 minutes by spending 1 or more charges. 1 charge increases the radius of both the bright and dim light to 30 ft., 2 charges increase it to 60 ft., and 3 charges increase it to 120 ft.

Blessed Dawn. The light of the last dawn grants fortitude in the face of darkness. As an action, you can spend 1 charge to choose a creature within the radius of bright light. It regains hit points equal to 3d8 + your charisma modifier, as well as the same amount of temporary hit points.

The target has resistance to all damage until the start of your next turn.

Unraveling Light. The light of the Sunforge reveals weakness wherever it is to be found. As an action, you can spend 1 charge to create a beam of brilliant light that illuminates a single creature you can see within 120 ft. of you.

Until the start of your next turn, the target is blinded, loses all its damage resistances and immunities and cannot benefit from the invisible condition.

Final Sunset. Moments of desperation often require sacrifice. As an action, destroy the Last Light. For every charge the artifact had upon its destruction, you restore up to 100 hit points, divided as you choose among any number of creatures that were within the Last Light's radius of bright light.

Creatures that have died within the last minute can be healed by this effect, restoring them to life, but it can't return to life a creature that has died of old age, nor can it restore any missing body parts.

LIGHTBEARER

Weapon (Warhammer), Rare

Once the very hammer with which metal was wrought in the heat of the Sunforge, it has since been remade to carry the last embers of light that remain.

Lightbearer is a +2 Warhammer that deals 1d8 additional radiant damage to Aberrations, Celestials, Elementals, Fey, Fiends, and Undead.

A creature attuned to the Last Light may insert or remove it from the hammer's head as an action. While the Last Light is stored within the hammer, it does not lose charges at dusk. Additionally, the Last Light's wielder can use its features while holding Lightbearer.

This work includes material from the System Reference Document 5.2.1 ("SRD 5.2.1") by Wizards of the Coast LLC, available at <https://www.dnd-beyond.com/srd>. The SRD 5.2.1 is licensed under the Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 International License, available at <https://creativecommons.org/licenses/by/4.0/legalcode>.